Andrews Massey Duo

Emily Andrews (flutes, voice) and David Massey (guitars) met in 2009 at the Royal Academy of Music while playing in the orchestra for a musical. They have played together ever since, alongside their solo careers. Emily and David are expanding the boundaries of flute and guitar duo playing. They specialise in doing their own arrangements of music, from classical and folk repertoire, so their recitals are extremely varied and unique to their duo.

As a duo they have gone from strength to strength: winners of a prestigious Tunnell Trust Award; semi-finalists in the Royal Overseas League Competition in London three times; and regular recitalists in a variety of settings, including lunchtime and evening recitals around the country (including Wigmore Hall, St Martin in the Fields, Kings Place, St James' Piccadilly, Colston Hall, Chipping Campden Music Festival) and abroad in Germany, Italy and Sweden.

As recording artists they have released three CDs: "...from the roots", a collection of their own arrangements of British folk melodies; "make merry", the duo's own arrangements of traditional Christmas carols in world music styles; and "Stolen Serenades", a CD of Schubert and Mozart arranged for flute and guitar. A new CD is on the cards for 2022!

With guitarist Francisco Correa they formed the trio CarmenCo, which performs concerts as well as providing music for the concert/play "Creating Carmen" written by Clare Norburn, touring 2019-21 with support from Arts Council England at festivals including Concerts in the West and Buxton Festival. The trio released a CD of Spanish and Spanish-inspired music in Autumn 2019.

Aside from their work together, they are both in demand as orchestral musicians – Emily has performed with Philharmonia Orchestra, Scottish Opera, BBC National Orchestra of Wales, WNO, Opera North and Royal Philharmonic Orchestra; David performs regularly with Southbank Sinfonia and with Chi-Chi Nwanoku's orchestra Chineke!
